FOREWORD

Rwanda Education Board is honored to avail the History Syllabus for Teacher Training Colleges (TTCs). This document serves as official guide to teaching and learning of History in TTCs. The document ensures consistency and coherence in the delivery of quality education in TTCs, Pre-primary and Primary education.

The Rwandan education philosophy is to ensure that young people at every level of education achieve their full potential in terms of relevant knowledge, skills and appropriate attitudes that prepare them to be well integrated in society and exploit employment opportunities.

The ambition to develop a knowledge based society and the growth of regional and global competition in the labour market, has necessitated the shift from knowledge to a competence based curriculum in TTCs. The TTC curriculum was revised to align it to the Competence Based Curriculum for basic education, to prepare teachers who are competent and confident to implement CBC in pre-primary and primary education. The rationale of the changes is to ensure that TTC leavers are qualified for job opportunities and further studies in Higher Education in different programs under education career advancement.

I wish to sincerely express my appreciation to the people who contributed towards the development of this syllabus, particularly, Consultants, REB staff, UR-CE Lecturers, TTC Tutors, Teachers from general education and experts from Local and international Organizations for their technical support. A word of gratitude goes to the Head Teachers and TTCs principals who availed their staff for various revision activities.

Special appreciation goes to the development partners such as UNICEF, IEE, USAID/Soma Umenye, Save the Children and Right To Play for their financial support.

Dr. NDAYAMBAJE Irénée
Director General, REB

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wish to sincerely express my special appreciation to the people who played a major role in development of History syllabus. It would not have been successful without the support from different education stakeholders. My thanks first go to the leadership of UR-CE who started the review of the TTC curriculum in 2015.

I wish also to thank Rwanda Education Board (REB) leadership who took over and supervised the curriculum review process. I wish to extend my appreciation to Consultants, staff from REB, MINEDUC, National Itorero Commission, Aegis Trust, Lecturers from UR-CE, TTC principals, TTC Directors of Studies, tutors, teachers from secondary General Education whose efforts during the revision process were much valuable.

Special thanks go to UNICEF who funded the development, designing finalization and printing of this syllabus.

I owe gratitude to different education partners more especially USAID-Soma Umenye, Save the Children, Right To Play, Help a Child, Aegis Trust, Humanity and Inclusion, Flemish Association for Development Cooperation and Technical Assistance (VVOB), Voluntary Service Overseas (VSO), Teach Rwanda and IEE for their technical support

Joan Murungi,
Head of Curriculum, Teaching and Learning Resources Department (CTRLD)

1. GENERAL INTRODUCTION

1.1 Rwanda Education Sector Objectives

The Education Sector objectives are the reference point for the inclusion of education issues into other Rwandan policy documents. These objectives are aligned with those recommended in the Eastern African Curriculum Framework proposals. The Government of Rwanda through law number 36/2018 of 29th June 2018 determining the organization of education revised the objectives of the sector. They are to:

1. Provide Rwandans with adequate skills at all levels of general, professional, as well as technical and vocational skills;
2. Offer quality courses and education at all levels;
3. Promote science, technology and research in order to equip many Rwandans with capacity to speed up national development;
4. Promote the culture of peace, tolerance, justice, respect for human rights, solidarity, democracy and that of avoiding any form of discrimination or favoritism;
5. Provide each Rwandan with an integrated education based on ethical values, science and social welfare and directed towards building a nation to ensure its sustainable development;
6. Instill into Rwandans the love of a job well done, the value of hard work, punctuality and promotion of competence
7. Train the Rwandan to have freedom of thought, be innovative, have abilities to acquire and be analytical towards other people's opinions and to communicate his or her own ideas, to be patriotic and encourage him or her to be updated on the situation prevailing elsewhere;
8. Eliminate all grounds and obstacles that hinder the development of girls and women education as well as of any other groups that need special attention.

These objectives and associated strategies are the backbone for developments in education including the curriculum and assessment policy and the curriculum framework.

1.2 Level Competences of Primary Teacher Education in the Republic of Rwanda

As stated earlier, Primary Teacher Education is under the responsibility of Rwanda Education Board. The following are the competences of Teacher Education. By the time a student-teacher is exiting the college after three years he or she should:

- Be a qualified teacher who can compete not only locally but regionally and internationally;

- Have professional ethics and develop an inquiring mind for innovative education;
- Be prepared adequately for efficiency in education, administration, management, evaluation and measurement;
- Be competent, reliable, honest and responsible.
- Be equipped with potentials that enable him/her to explore the learners' abilities and interests
- Be able to develop the child's ability in critical thinking, free expression and ideas.

1.3 Background to Curriculum Review

The History syllabus is developed for TTC student-teachers in the option of Social Studies Education. The motive of reviewing the syllabus was to ensure that the syllabus is responsive to the needs of the student-teacher and to shift from objective and knowledge-based learning to competence-based learning. Another reason was to align the draft TTC curriculum to the CBC in general education. Emphasis in the review was put more on skills and competences as well as the coherence within the existing content by drawing on the previous syllabus and benchmarking with syllabi elsewhere with best practices.

The History syllabus guides the interaction between the tutor and student -teachers in the learning processes and highlights the competences a student teacher should acquire during and at the end of each unit of learning. Student- teachers will have the opportunity to apply History in different contexts and see its importance in daily life. Tutors help the student- teachers appreciate the relevance and benefits for studying History.

The learning of student teacher is influenced by many factors such as curriculum relevancy, necessary and sufficient pedagogical approach by tutors, assessment strategies and sufficient instructional materials. With review of the History syllabus, these factors have been aligned with the competence-based curriculum for general education. This will lead to having qualified and competent teachers who are ready to implement the competence based curriculum for pre/primary education and perform well in higher education or any fields that require some knowledge of History. This implies equipping student teachers with relevant knowledge, skills, attitude and values necessary to make them competitive on local, regional and global job market. This revised syllabus will allow future teachers to contribute to the development of equity and quality education at pre/primary levels and then it will enable student teachers to go for further studies.

1.4 Rationale of Teaching and Learning History

History plays an important role in the society. History is one of the social science subjects and is an important discipline that has contributed to the human activities, political and social transformation throughout the world.

History enables student-teachers to understand the past and the present so as to improve the future. It guides the interaction between the tutor and the student teacher in the learning process and highlights the knowledge, skills, attitudes and the values that a student teacher should acquire at the end of each unit which helps him/her to be professionally competent and participate actively and critically in the society.

1.4.1 History and Society

History is the key to the Rwandan education ambition of developing a knowledge-based and technology-led economy since it provides to student teachers all required knowledge and skills to be used in different learning areas. Therefore, History is an important subject as it supports other subjects. This TTC History syllabus is intended to address gaps in the current History syllabus which lacks adequate and appropriate knowledge, skills, attitudes and values.

1.4.2. History and Student teachers

Student teachers need enough basic Historical competences to be effective members of Rwandan society including the ability to understand the past and the present so as to improve the future. It guides the interaction between the tutor and the student teacher in the learning process and highlights the knowledge, skills, attitudes and the values that a student teacher should acquire at the end of each unit which helps him/her to be professionally competent and participate actively and critically in the society.

Therefore, History equips student teachers with knowledge, skills and attitudes necessary to enable them to succeed in an era of rapid technological growth, political and socio-economic development. Mastery of History makes student teachers being confident in problem solving. It enables the student-teachers to be systematic, creative and self-confident in reasoning; think critically; develop imagination, initiative and flexibility of mind. In this regard, learning History needs to include practical problem-solving activities with opportunities for student teachers to plan their own investigations in order to develop their Historical competence and confidence.

As new technologies have had a dramatic impact on all aspects of life, wherever possible in History, student teachers should gain experience of a range of ICT equipment and applications.

1.5. Professional standards and competences

1.5.1. Competences

Competence is defined as the ability to perform a particular task successfully, resulting from having gained an appropriate use of the combination of knowledge, skills, attitudes and values.

The present syllabus gives the opportunity to student-teachers to develop different competences as well as the generic competences.

Broad subject competences are highlighted and broken into key competences for each year, these are further broken into key unit competences which are finally split out into learning objectives (knowledge, skills, attitudes and values) in every unit.

Taking into account the rationale behind the overall TTC curriculum review as well as the parameters and constraints of the local context, student teachers will be equipped with professional standards and generic competences.

For student teachers, professional standards are acquired through generic competences and professional practices that are emphasized and reflected in the learning process. The History tutors will ensure that student teachers are exposed to tasks that help them acquire these competences.

1.5.2. Teaching Professional Standards

These refer to the characteristics that all teachers globally should have. All teachers in Rwanda should have the six characteristics listed below:

i) The teacher has knowledge of CBC and how to implement it.

The teacher has understanding of CBC and how it works. He/she has knowledge of basic and generic competences and is able to integrate the cross-cutting issues within and across subject area.

ii) The teacher as an educator

The professional teacher enhances and stimulates cognitive, social-emotional, physical and moral development of the learners. She/he therefore has a thorough understanding of the learner's background, interests, motivations and problems and can adjust his/her actions and the learning environment to the different needs of the students. A competent educator is a role model, showing desired behaviour and values. She/he guides and coaches his/her student teachers to become social, self-confident, independent, responsible, open-minded and innovative people and act like a role model. In order to be educator, the student teacher must be supported in developing cooperation, inter personal and life skills.

iii) The teacher as a subject expert

The professional teacher stimulates the student's critical thinking, problem solving and creativity. She/he uses teaching/learning methods and techniques that are appropriate to pre primary and primary education; She/he applies relevant content, plans lessons, integrating play-based strategies in teaching and learning. The teacher in preprimary and primary education has a thorough subject knowledge that enables him/her to develop teaching/learning materials and in lesson planning so as to effectively deliver the lesson and connect with daily life activities in preprimary and primary education using the language of instruction correctly. The teacher as a subject-expert in upper primary education stimulates English in the teaching/learning process by considering the transition from Kinyarwanda to English as a medium of instruction in upper primary.

The teacher as a subject expert knows and uses appropriate methods/techniques to assess students and give constructive feedback to the whole class. The teacher is able to link the content of her/his subject specialization with other subjects and connect it with real life situations.

The teacher as expert knows and uses appropriate methods /techniques to assess learners and give constructive feedback to the whole class. The teacher as Social Studies expert is able to link the content of History with other subjects and connect it with real life situation. This enables learners to acquire critical and problem solving skills as well as the Historical concepts and skills enabling him/her to pursue/ follow tertiary education.

iv) The teacher as a communicator

The professional teacher displays a good example in his/her way of expressing him/herself, stimulates and enhances positive and clear communication between him/herself and students. A good communicator is open-minded and respects diversity within and around the school. This requires learners to communicate in official languages.

v) The teacher as a guide and an organizer

The professional teacher facilitates the holistic development of all students, taking into account the differences between them. She/he ensures that the learning environment (class or playground) is well maintained and conducive for expected learning outcomes. This requires the teacher to be equipped with managerial skills.

vi) The teacher as an innovator, researcher and reflective practitioner

The professional teacher looks for ways to improve his/her teaching, and the wellbeing and results of the students. She/he is a reflective practitioner and knows how to perform small-scale reflective actions.

The acquisition of such skills will require teachers to update knowledge and skills with minimum external support and to cope with evolution of knowledge advances for personal fulfillment in areas that need improvement and development, thus becoming lifelong learners.

1.5.3 Broad History competences

At the end of the three years the student teacher should be able to:

- Live in harmony with others without any distinction, religious distinction or other form of discrimination and exclusion that have caused problems in the society like the genocide against the Tutsi, to transform them into good citizens.
- Appreciate the Rwandan values, universal values of peace, respect of human rights, rights of gender equality, democracy, justice, solidarity and good governance.
- Promote the moral, intellectual and social values through which the student teachers will improve their competence and skills that are essential for the sustainable development of the country.
- Develop a patriotic spirit, the sense of civic pride and the spirit of knowing what happens all over the world.
- Develop a sense of moral responsibility and commitment to social justice and gender equity.
- Promote the spirit of self – reliance, dignity and cooperation among the nations.
- Use ICT tools in teaching and learning History in sense of research, curiosity and creativity to explore Historical concepts and facts.

1.5.4 History and Developing Competences

The national policy documents based on national aspirations identify some ‘basic competences’ alongside the ‘generic competences’ that will develop higher order thinking skills and help student-teacher learn subject content and promote application of acquired knowledge and skills.

The student teacher will not only develop deductive and inductive skills but also acquire cooperation and communication, critical thinking and problem solving skills. This will be realized when student teachers make presentations leading to inferences and conclusions at the end of learning unit. This will be achieved through student teachers' group work and cooperative learning which in turn will promote interpersonal relations and teamwork.

The acquired knowledge in learning History should develop a responsible citizen who adapts to scientific reasoning and attitudes and develops confidence in reasoning independently. The student teacher should show concern of individual attitudes, environmental protection and comply with the scientific method of reasoning. The scientific method should be applied with the necessary rigor, intellectual honesty to promote critical thinking while systematically pursuing the line of thought.

2. PEDAGOGICAL APPROACH

The change to a competence-based curriculum is about transforming learning, ensuring that learning is deep, enjoyable and habit-forming.

2.1 Role of the Student teacher

In the competence based syllabus, the student-teacher is the principal actor of his/her education. She/he is not an empty bottle to fill. Taking into account the initial capacities and abilities of the student teacher, the syllabus suggests under each unit, some activities of the student teacher and they all reflect active participation in the learning process.

The teaching and learning processes will be tailored towards creating a student's friendly environment basing on the capabilities, needs, experience and interests.

The following are some of the roles or the expectations from the student teachers:

- Student teachers construct the knowledge either individually or in groups in an active way. From the learning theory, they move in their understanding from simple to complex. Therefore, the opportunities should be given to student teachers to solve problems using critical thinking and problem solving skills.
- Student teachers work on one competence at a time to form concrete units with specific learning objectives (knowledge, skills and attitudes).
- Student teachers will be encouraged to do research and present their findings through group work activities.

- Student teachers are cooperative: they work in heterogeneous groups to increase tolerance and understanding.
- Student teachers are responsible for their own participation and ensure the effectiveness of their work.

2.2. Role of the Tutor

In the competence based syllabus, the tutor is a facilitator, organizer, advisor, and conflict solver,

The specific duties of the tutor in a competence-based approach are the following, tutor is:

- A facilitator, his/her role is to provide opportunities for student teachers to meet problems that interest and challenge them and that, with appropriate effort, they can solve. This requires an elaborated preparation to plan the activities, the place they will be carried, the required assistance;
- An organizer: his/her role is to organize the student teachers in the classroom or outside and engage them through participatory and interactive methods through the learning processes as individuals, in pairs or in groups. To ensure that the learning is personalized, active and participative, co-operative the tutor must identify the needs of the student teachers, the nature of the learning to be done, and the means to shape learning experiences accordingly;
- An advisor: he/she provides counseling and guidance for student-teachers in need. He/she comforts and encourages student teachers by valuing their contributions in the class activities;
- A conflict-solver: most of the activities are performed in groups. The members of a group may have problems such as attribution of tasks; they should find useful and constructive the intervention of the teacher as a unifying element.
- Asked for help only when the whole group agrees to ask a question
- Ethical and preaches by examples by being impartial, by being a role-model, by caring for individual needs, especially for slow student teachers and those with physical impairments, through a special assistance, by providing remedial activities or reinforcement activities. One should notice that this list is not exhaustive.

2.3. Special Needs Education and Inclusive Approach

All Rwandans have the right to access education regardless of their different needs. The underpinnings of this provision would naturally hold that all citizens benefit from the same menu of educational programs. The possibility of this assumption is the focus of special needs education. The critical issue is that we have student teachers who are totally different in their ways of living and learning as opposed to the majority. The difference can either be caused by emotional, physical, sensory and intellectual learning challenges.

These student teachers equally have the right to benefit from the free and compulsory basic education in the nearby ordinary/mainstream colleges. Therefore, the college's role is to enroll them and also set strategies to provide relevant education to them. The tutor therefore is requested to consider each student teacher's needs during teaching and learning process.

Assessment strategies and conditions should also be standardized to the needs of these student teachers. Detailed guidance for each category of student teachers with special education needs is provided for in the guidance for teachers. The History tutor is advised to work closely with the tutor of special need education to provide appropriate support to any identified student teacher's needs.

2.4. Skills Lab Pedagogy

History is a practical subject. Students must have time to practice through (group discussion, field study at historical sites, museums and afterwards present the results of their trip/ findings, role play on how to prevent human rights violation. Role play on how genocide was stopped.....).

Student teachers should engage in different clubs to guarantee practice of History. It is called "Skills Laboratory" or "Skills Lab" for abbreviation. No special facilities or equipment is required for Skills Lab. In order for student teachers to learn History program focused on developing transferable 21st century skills, the pedagogical structure of skills lab is provided in the learning activities.

Skills lab is when student teachers are required to complete learning activities working in small groups. The skills labs are easy method to change teacher's pedagogy from theory-based to competency-based instruction. Skills lab ensures teachers are accountable to completing all the learning activities and projects as outlined in the syllabus.

The basic characteristics of Skills Lab are:

- Students work in small groups (manageable teams)
- Assessment takes place through portfolio activities
- Students talk more than teachers (10% teacher talk time and the rest is for the students)
- Students receive constructive feedback on their work (Teacher gives quality feedback on student presentations).
- Skills lab consists of three components: build, practice and present.
- Link to student clubs (such as Unity and Reconciliation, Peace and values education, environmental, anti-drugs, AIDS) as a platform for practicing real life activities through results.

Skills lab is the time when lesson combines the competencies acquired during the unit and previous units to make learning more practical.

Thus, at the end of every unit, this syllabus provides /suggest skills lab pedagogy lesson to ensure practical application of the competencies acquired.

3. ASSESSMENT APPROACH

Assessment is the process of evaluating the teaching and learning processes through collecting and interpreting evidence of individual student teacher's progress in learning and to make a judgment about the achievements measured against defined standards. Assessment is an integral part of the teaching learning process. In the new competence based curriculum, assessment must also be competence based; whereby a student teacher is given a complex situation related to his/her everyday life and asked to try to overcome the situation by applying what he/she learned.

3.1. Types of Assessments

There are two major types of assessment namely formative and summative assessments. Any form of assessment should reflect the three domains of learning, which are Cognitive, Psychomotor and Affective:

- Knowledge and understanding: Does the student-teacher demonstrate an understanding of the History concept? Has the student teacher mastered the History concepts? Indicators: correctness of answers, coherence of ideas, logical reasoning, use correctly Historical concepts, etc.
- Practical skills: How does the student teacher perform on aptitude and practical tests? Indicators: accuracy, using appropriate methods, quality product, speed and efficiency, coherence.
- Attitude and values: How does the student teacher respond to a task or a situation? What is the student teacher's behaviour? How the student teacher persists on solving a given problem?

3.1.1. Formative Assessment:

Formative assessment helps to check the efficiency of the process of learning. It is done within the teaching/learning process.

Continuous assessment involves formal and informal methods used by schools to check whether learning is taking place. When a tutor is planning his/her lesson, he/she should establish criteria for performance and behavior changes at the beginning of a lesson. Then, at the end of every unit, the tutor should ensure that all the student-teachers have mastered the stated key unit competences basing on the criteria stated, before going to the next unit. The tutor will assess how well each student teacher masters both the subject and the generic competences described in the syllabus as well as the professional practices. From this, the tutor will gain a picture of the all-round progress of the student teacher. The tutor will use one or a combination of the following techniques: observation, pen and paper, and oral questioning.

3.1.2. Summative Assessment:

When assessment is used to record a judgment of a competence development or performance of the student teacher, it serves a summative purpose. Summative assessment gives a picture of a student teacher's competence or progress at any specific moment. The main purpose of summative assessment is to evaluate whether competences have been achieved and to use the results for ranking or grading of student teachers, for deciding on progression, for selection into the next level of education and for certification. This assessment should have an integrative aspect whereby a student must be able to show mastery of all competences. It can be internal college based assessment or external assessment in the form of national examinations. College based summative assessment should take place once at the end of each term and once at the end of the year. College summative assessment average scores for the subjects which are examined at the national level will be weighted and included in the final national examinations grade. For the subjects which are not examined externally the grade should be part of the continuous assessment reflected in the student's transcript.

3.2. Record Keeping

This is gathering facts and evidence from assessment instruments and using them to judge the student's performance by assigning an indicator against the set criteria or standard. Whatever assessment procedures used generate data in the form of scores which will be carefully be recorded and stored in a portfolio. The latter is used in deciding remedial actions, alternative instructional strategy and as well as feed back to the student teacher. The records also are important to parents to check the learning progress and to advice accordingly. Finally, the records are very essential to the final assessment of professional practice of the student teacher at the end of the college.

This portfolio is a folder (or binder or even a digital collection) containing the student teacher's work as well as the student teacher's evaluation of the strengths and weaknesses of the work. Portfolios reflect not only work produced (such as papers and assignments), but also it is a record of the activities undertaken over time as part of student learning. Besides, it will serve as a verification tool for each student teacher that he/she attended the whole learning before he/she undergoes the summative assessment for the subject.

3.3. Item writing in summative assessment

Before developing a question paper, a plan or specification of what is to be tested or examined must be elaborated to show the units or topics to be tested on, the number of questions in each level of revised Bloom's taxonomy and the marks allocation for each question. In a competence-based curriculum, questions from higher levels of Bloom's taxonomy should be given more weight than those from knowledge and comprehension level.

Before developing a question paper, the item writer must ensure that the test or examination questions are tailored towards competence based assessment by doing the following:

- Identify topic areas to be tested on from the subject syllabus.
- Outline subject-matter content to be considered as the basis for the test.
- Identify learning outcomes to be measured by the test.
- Prepare a table of specifications.
- Ensure that the verbs used in the formulation of questions do not require memorization or recall answers only but also testing broad, subject and generic competences as stated in the syllabus.

4. RESOURCES

4.1. Materials needed for implementation

The following list shows the main materials/equipment needed in the learning and teaching process:

- Materials to encourage group work activities and presentations: Computers (Desktops & laptops) and projectors; Manila papers and markers, textbooks and handouts, poems, testimonies, press media, songs, tactile materials, jaws software, talking globes, tactile maps, braille materials and sign language charts.
- Materials for drawing maps, charts and graphs: Geometric instruments, ICT tools such as Microsoft student ENCARTA, and sign language charts.
- Materials for enhancing research skills: Textbooks and internet (the list of the textbooks to consult is given in the reference at the end of the syllabus and those books can be found in printed or digital copies), poems, testimonies, press media, songs, tactile materials, jaws software, talking globes, tactile maps, braille materials and sign language charts.

- Equipment, materials and sites to encourage the development of Historical research: field visit, historical sites, genocide memorials, archeological sites, museums, testimonies, archives, etc.

The technology used in teaching and learning History has to be regarded as tools to enhance the teaching and learning process and not to replace tutors.

4.2. Human resources

For the successful and smooth teaching of History, the tutor must have excellent subject knowledge and an ability to model the application of this knowledge to the challenges and problems in History from local to global level. The tutor must be able to inspire student-teachers and be a role model as an enthusiastic historian and lifelong student teacher.

5. SYLLABUS UNITS

5.1. History syllabus units for Year 2

5.1.1. Key competencies at the end of Year 2

At the end of Year 2 student teacher will be able to:

- Compare different genocides that occurred in different parts of the world;
- Evaluate different forms of genocides ideology and how the genocide has been denied in Rwanda and in other societies.
- Assess how the genocide can be prevented in Rwanda and elsewhere in the World.
- Describe the concept of dignity, self-reliance and resolution of conflicts in various societies including Rwanda.
- Describe the origin, rise, organisation and the collapse of the different empires in West and South Africa
